Hippocrene. 1 Paperback(s), 1997. soft. Book Condition: New. In 1950, the peninsula of Brittany in northwest France was home to one million speakers of Breton, a Celtic language akin to Gaelic; after subsequently becoming an endangered species among languages, Breton is currently making a comeback. In this pocket-sized guide, J.F. Conroy provides an overview of Breton pronunciation and grammar, and the dictionary is straightforward and easy to use, while the phrasebook includes words used in greetings as well as to reference food, people, weather, clothing, and places. Such common phrases as "What's on the menu today?" and "I forget how much I paid," appear here alongside the possibly less frequently used "we do not buy chickens" and the oath "excrement of a black dog!" 175.
