Don Fuqua (chairman of the task force) presiding. Mr. Fuqua. The task force will be in order. Today we begin hearings with outside witnesses regarding their views and ideas on the subject of science policy before the special task force, and we are very pleased this morning, for several reasons, to have Dr. George Pimentel, who is professor of chemistry at the University of California at Berkeley. He is the former Assistant Director of the National Science Foundation. He is currently Chairman of the National Academy of Sciences Committee to Survey Chemical Sciences, and yesterday he was honored by the President of the United States with a Medal of Science that was presented by the President. We are very pleased to have you, George. You've been here many times, and you have certainly contributed a great deal to the deliberations of our committee on various subject matters. We are glad to have you today to be our lead off witness in what we hope will be a constructive study of our science policy of the United States.
